NSW redistribution submission:

If new electorate names are created – I would like to suggest Pemulwuy – a remarkable man, with a remarkable story from the early settler times in Sydney.

Information about his life and efforts is widely available online including via the above link.

While he was a Bidjigal man, the name would be appropriate for many parts of Sydney:

A Bidjigal (Bidgigal) man from the Botany Bay area of Sydney, his country 'stretched from Botany Bay south of the Cooks River and west along the Georges River to Salt Pan Creek, south of Bankstown.'¹

He was also famously involved in the battles of Toongabbie and Parramatta.
