Abolishing the seat of North Sydney

I object to the proposed redistribution of electoral boundaries that would result in the seat of North Sydney being abolished.

There are four main reasons:

- We have a vibrant and engaged community that recently supported the election of an independent
- We had 111,710 voters registered for the last election, which is more than Bradfield, Warringah, Wentworth, Parramatta
- The seat is historically important as it was one of the original 75 divisions contested at the first federal election
- With the current and committed construction in the area the population will grow to keep this seat viable into the future

If we are abolished it will disenfranchise the citizens in this area. This will reduce the trust in Government.
